The Case for the Prosecution Closed.

Verdict Rendered Against an Insurance Company.

A LAWYER DISBARRED

The suit of Messrs. Harnett and Fianagan against Andrew J. Garvey for $3,192 50 for professional services (the particulars of which have been given in the HERALD), was concluded yester-day before Judge Sedgwick, of the Superior Court. The jury rendered a verdict for $1,692 50 for the

In Supreme Court, Chambers, yesterday, Judge Donohue appointed Edward L. Donnelly, Ambrose R. Ely and William J. Osborne Commissioners to ondemn property required in Dover street for the Brooklyn Bridge. It is also left to the Commisloners to make the estimates and awards for the property taken. Anna Kade some time since got a divorce from her husband, and he shortly after bought some property, which he sold to Max Lamber. Mrs. le brought suit to recover ber dower interest in the property, and Judge Van Vorst, before whom the case was tried, decided yesterday that the decree of divorce severed the marriage contract, and no such contract being in existence at the time the property was bought the right of dower could not a tack thereto.

some time ago John Brennan was robbed of $24,360 worth of watches and jewelry in Philadelphia. A portion of the stolen property, it is had been traced to the possessie Herman Goodstein, and suit was commenced in the Supreme Court by Brennan to recover the full value of the stolen property from Goodstein. The trial began yesterday, before Judge Van Vorst, ad will probably last two or three days.

THE MURRAY-CONNERTON HOMICIDE. The trial of George W. Murray for the murder of John Connerton, on the 21st of last November, at the corner of Washington and Charles street, by striking him on the head with a cart rung, was resumed yesterday in the Court of Oyer and Terminer, before Judge Barrett. There was a large crowd in attendance. The prisoner sat by Mr. Charles W. Brooke, his counsel, looking as calm and unconcerned as on the opening of the trial. District Attorney Pheips conducted the prosecution.

The testimony for the prosecution opened by the effects of a blow on the head, fracturing the skull and producing compression of the brain and death.

John H. Applegate and Mary Dwight were examined, but their testimony threw no important light on the case.

Mary Neymeyer, living at No. 142 Perry street, testified that she went to Gibbons' saloon on the night of the nomicide for some beer; as she passed in she met two or three men coming out; she saw Billy Pertain and Martin Joyce in the 'saloon' shortly afterward Pertain went out and Joyce also went out, but by the side door, the front door being closed; on going out she saw a man lying on the sidewalk; about two leet from the man she saw another man standing, having a cart rung in his hand; the man put down the cart rung and ran away; she could not swear that the prisoner was the man with the cart rung.

Cross- xamided—She never told any one that Pertain was the man who had the cart rung; her hasbaad never told her not to say anything against Pertain, as he was a bad man.

Martin Joyce, wo, since the homicide, has been confined in the flouse of Detention as a witness, was next cailed. He testified that he lived at No. 157 Perry street; on the night of the 21st of November he saw "Wash" Murray asleep in Gibbons' saloon; Billy Pertain went in with him; in the saloon there were four or five men disputing about nationality and the 'lougsnoremen's strike; their loud talk woke up Murray, who went out; the other men lett, and he snortly after heard a scuffe outside and the cry, "Grab your man;" he left the saloon with Billy Pertain, and, after drinking at the corner of Charles and Greenwich street, went to Larkins', at the corner of West Tenth and Hudson streets, and he as everal drinks; Murray soon came in; Billy Pertain, and, after drinking at the corner of Charles and Greenwich street, went to Larkins', at the corner of West Tenth and Hudson streets, and he as everal drinks; Murray soon came in; Billy Pertain, and, after drinking at the corner of weit Tenth and Film Pertain went and a several drinks; Murra

Q. Were you not arrested for beating your mother? A. No, sir (inaignantly); but I have been arrested for beating my brotaer. (Laughter.) Q. Have you ever been arrested for stealing? A. Well, yes, for stealing lead pipe.

in his further cross-examination witness confessed to having been sent two or three times to the Penirentiary on Blackwell's Island.

Michael Mulien, night watchman on the Atlantic Dock, corroborated in the main the story of the proceding witness.

After him was called W. Pertain. He was in Globons' saloon on the night Connerton was killed; he heard the dispute in the saloon on the liongshoremen's strike; the men went out, and he looked out through the olind and saw four men scuffling; he then went out; two men ran away; Murray took a cart rung from a cart and struck a man as he was getting up; he then went oack into the saloon and told Globons, "I believe Marray has killed; he heard those men;" Girbons said, "if that is so I think it about time to shut up shop."

The witness was subjected to a long and searching cross-examination, but eliciting no new lacts.

The Court then took a recess.

After recess Officer O'niel testified to naving gone to Murray's house on the night of the 22d of November; he was accompanied by Pertain; at the nouse they were told that Murray was not there. The case for the prosecution was here closed, and Mr. Brooke opened for the defence.

Samuel R. Lowden, of No. 686 Washington street, was the first witness cailed by the defence. He knew the witness Pertain by sight for the past five years; he knew the prisoner since 1855; during that time his general character has been excelent.

Walter H. Peepy knew the prisoner for the last five years; he knew the prisoner since 1835; during that time his general character has been excellent.

Walter H. Peepy knew the prisoner for the last eight years; his general character was very good; he had an unlimited fund of humor and was a very good mine; he was or a very peaceable and accommodating disposition.

Isaac A. Proper, of No. 164 Perry street, testified that he knew William H. Pertain by sight for the past six manihs; his general reputation for veracity in the neighborhood where he lives is very bad; the witness knew the prisoner for the last twelve years; his character during that time was very excellent; the witness stated that he had had a difficulty with the witness Pertain, who had threatened to split his skull with a cart rung.

William L. Gerrish, Jr.; James Pinkerton, Asa Cartis, Warren Beebe, Walter Barnes, Bernard Van Horn, Captain Washborne, of the Twentieth precinct; officers Ward and Van Arsdale, of the Ninth precinct, and George Peters, all testified to the good character of the accused; most of the witnesses swore that they knew the witness Pertain and that his reputation for veracity was so bad that they would not believe him under oath.

The case was here adjourned until to-day.

SUPREME COURT-CIRCUIT-PART 2. SUIT BY THE LATE JUDGE BONNEY'S WIDOW. Before Judge Van Vorst.

Adriana Bonney, widow of the late Judge Bon-ney, of the United States Court, brought suit against Joseph B. Stewart, to recover $7,500 on a promissory note, and $5,000 alleged to have been loaned the defendant by her husband. The defence was that the indebtedness was cancelled by a conveyance giving an interest in Manning Island, but which conveyance it was claimed for the plaintiff was only security for the debt. A verdict was rendered for the defendant.

SUPREME COURT-CIRCUIT-PART 3. VERDICT AGAINST AN INSURANCE COMPANY.

Before Judge Lawrence. William R. Oberman was agent of the World Mutual Life Insurance Company, and in 1869 got a policy for $1,000 on his life in the company. On January 8, 1873, a premium was due on the policy, a clause in which, however, allowed thirty days for its payment. On January 26 Oberman died. His wife brought suit for the amount of the policy and the case was tried about a year ago before Judge Van Brunt, and a verdict rendered in favor of the plaintiff, which was set aside by Judge Van Brunt at the time. The case was retried yesterday in this Court, and resulted in a verdict for $1,125, being the full amount claimed, with interest. It was claimed that the last premium had not been paid, but a receipt for it signed by the Secretary was produced; but this the company claimed was given only in anticipation of payment. It was proved, on the part of the pisintin, that it had been the custom of the decased to pay his premiums by commissions on the policies for which he was avent; that at the time of his death he had esrued sufficient commissions to pay for the premium. It was contenued by the company that he was indebted to them in the sum of $61 when he died, but a check was produced drawn by Oberman in layor of the company for $143, which, it was alleged, was not taken into the final reckoning of the accounts. The jury, after carefully considering all the evidence, rendered the above verdict in layor of the plaintiff.

Henry Wenle for plaintiff and Prentice & Matthews for defendant.

COMMON PLEAS-GENERAL TERM. DISBARRING G. W. NILES. Before Chief Justice Daly and Judges Robinson and J. F. Daly. George W. Niles in 1851 was convicted of outsinfor two years and six months to State Prison. Being a lawyer his case was brought to the notice of the Supreme Court, General Term, Judges, and they at once, as claimed, disbarred him, though he insists that proceedings to this end only were taken, but that an order to disbar him was never issued. Under this alleged state of facts and a decision of Judge Clerke that he was still entitled to plactise his profession, he continued to do so, though with occasional recurrences of opposition, after his release from State Prison. Recently, in a surfapealed from the Marine Court to this Court, this opposition took a more decided and persistent form. The result was an order directing him to show cause why he should be permitted to practise in the courts. An elaborate opinion was given yesterday in the case by Chief Justice Daily, the records of the Court at the time having oeen destroyed by fire, the Chief Justice begins his opinion by citing a "detailed account of what occurred," as published in the New York Herald of February 3, 1861. After going over all the facts of the case Judge Daly says that his "conclusion is that Nies was deprived of his office of Attorney and Counsellor of the Supreme Court by a proceeding in all respects regular and valid; that he has not been readmitted, and that he is not entitled to practise in this or in any other court in this State." Judge Robinson gave an opinion holding the same ylews, and both were concurred in by Judge J, F. Daly.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS. Before Judge Sutherland. THE DISORDERLY HOUSE CASE-CONVICTION OF MRS. MYERS.

The trial of Sarah E. Myers, indicted for keeping a disorderly house in Wooster street, was con-cluded yesterday. Mr. A. Oakey Hail and Assist-ant District Attorney Nolan, and His Honor, occupled the ent.re day in summing up the evidence pied the ent-re day in summing up the evidence and in presenting it to the jury. They retired at three o'clock to deliberate upon their vendict, and at half-past four returned with a verdict of guilty. The case has occupied three days in its trial, and the particular interest attaching to it arises from the fact that the defendant, Mrs. Myers, is indicted for keeping a number of bouses of an improper character in the Fitteenth ward. A large number of property holders in that locality have been endeavoring to prosecute the accused in order that these nuisances should be abaved.

Mr. Kintzing moved to have the sentence postpond this this morning. His Honor granted the motion, and at the request of the prosecuting officer Mrs. Myers was taken into custody.

LARCENY OF DIAMOND JEWELRY. Charles F. Reynolds was indicted for stealing diamond jewelry, gold studs and sleeve buttons the aggregate value of which was $1,000, and $50 in money, it being the property of Miss Mary L. Biglow, of No. 242 West Fitty-first street. He (Reynolds) pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand (Reynolds) pleaded guilty to an attempt at grand larceny, and was sentenced to the State Prison for two years and six months. Detective Golden recovered the lewelry at a loan office in Bieccker street on the following day.

Michael Fletcher was tried upon the charge of receiving this property knowing it to have been stolen. The proof against nim was that detectives arrested him in company with Reynolds at the loan office. When taken into custody Fletcher said that he did not know the jewelry was stolen; that Reynolds told him they belonged to his aunt, who lived up town, and he accompanied him into the office to assist him in effecting a loan upon tha property. The jury gave the accused the benefit of a legal doubt, and rendered a verdict of "Not guilty."

TOMBS POLICE COURT. Beiore Judge Kilbreth.

A GOOD WAY TO COLLECT A BAD DEBT. On Tuesday afternoon Egbert G. Barton, of No. 255 Centre street, appeared before Judge Kilbreth and swore out a warrant against John Conover, whom he charged with keeping a gambling saloon at No. 14 East Houston street. Yesterday Conover was arrested and brought to court, where he stated to the Juigs that Barton had done some piumbing for him and since the completin of the work had persistently cunned him for the bill, which at the time he was mable to pay. Failing to get the money he has, so Conover says, sought to vent his malice. Barton acknowledged having done the piumbing work and the failure to obtain compensation therefor, but denies the imputed malice, stating that the charge is founded in his conception of public policy. Conover is held in default of $1,000 to answer. Conover, whom he charged with keeping a gam-

THE CHARITABLE SOCIETIES' PROSPECTUS.

COMBINED ACTION AMONG THE BENEVOLENT OR-GANIZATIONS OF THE CITY.

A meeting was held yesterday morning to receive the report of the preliminary committee appointed by the conference of charitable organiza-tions engaged in administering outdoor relief, held at the Bible House, on December 28. Representatives of the following societies took part in the proceedings:-German Benevolent Society, St. Andrew's Society, St. George's Society, New England Society, Societé Alsacienne-Lorraine, United Hebrew Charities, Society for Reiter of Widows, St. John's Gulid, Young Men's Christian Associa-tion (Bowery Branch), Five Points House of Industry, Howard Mission, Society for Relief of Desti-tute Blind, Howard Relief Association, Home for the Friendless, St. Barnabas House, Children's Ald Society, Providence Bible Missionary Society, Calvary Church, St. Luke's Association of Grace Church, Colored Mission, Ladies' Union Ald Society, members of the Bureau of Charities, and the State Charities Ald Association were also present. Mr. Robert Gordon took the chair, and, after reading a letter from Mr. Isaac H. Bailey, Commissioner of Charities and Correction, expressing his regret at being unable to attend from press of official business, he stated that he had received friendly and encouraging answers from most of the societies to which invitations had been sent. The following report was then read by the Secre-

The Following report was then read by the Secretary:

The Provisional Committee appointed to carry out the resolutions adopted at the conference of December 28 beg to report that they have placed themselves in communication with forty-three of the principal associations and organizations engaged in outdoor relief in this city, with a view to ascertain their willingness to co-operate together in carrying on the system or registration haugurated by the Bureau of Charities. Of these societies twenty-four have expressed their cordinal approbation of the proposed scheme and readiness to co-operate in any way that may be thought best, while filteen out of the number have appointed delegates to represent them. Four societies reserve their definitive reply until they shall have consulted their respective boards of direction, and from the remaining fifteen no answer has as yet been received.

RESOLUTIONS.

The following resolutions, adopted by the meeting of December 28, 1874, express the objects of the conference:—

Whereas the Bureau of Charities has laid before the representatives of certain societies engaged in outdoor relief a plan for registering beneficiaries of the different

REGISTERED LETTERS.

FEATURES AND ADVANTAGES OF THE SYSTEM. The civilization of every country is determined by the amount of liberty and domestic happiness enjoyed by the inhabitants, and certainly one of the foremost promoters of the latter is the postal service, which enters so largely into the comfort and happiness of each member of society. Comparing the rude service of former days with the safety, speed and convenience of the present, leads certainly to a contrast in favor of the wis dom, which, among other improvements, has tration. In most cases of depredation charged to the Post Office shrewd special agents discover upon investigation that the thefts occur in business offices, or by the clerks of business offices, who handle the mails. In the Registry Department theits of this kind are almost unknown, and the checks upon the employes are of such a character that detection would almost immediately follow crime. Consulting the British Postal Guide, a high authority, these lines occur:—'The registration of a packet makes its transmission much more secure, and the loss of a registered packet is a very rare oc-makes its transmission much more secure, and the loss of a registered packet is a very rare occurrence." And also the following excellent advice, which will apply to persons using the post in this country as well as in Great Britain:—"Never send money or any other article of value through the post, except either by means of a money order or in a registered letter. Any person who sends money or jeweiry in an unregistered letter not only runs a risk of losing his property, but exposes to temptation every one through whose hands his letter passes, and may be the means of ultimately bringing some clerk or letter carrier to moral run." The German government, however, gives Absolute Security by instrance to senders of registered letters, by the payment of a small extra fee. If this insurance plan should be adopted by the United States there is no question but that it would yield an enormous revenue to the department. The Post Office, under the present system, gives a receipt for the letter to the person sending if at the date of mailing, which receipt bears a certain number, a number corresponding to which is placed on the letter. This letter, after going through the various checkings in the sending office, is forwarded under most stringent safeguards to its destination to the postmaster at the place of delivery; after which a duplicate receipt is returned to the sender of the letter, as proof positive that his letter has been sately delivered.

The registered packago envelope is not the least of the safeguards thrown around the letter. This is a large, stout envelope of a light color, with large red letters printed upon the back, as follows:—"Registered Packago," and addressed to the postmaster at the new lope, and over this is a large, stout envelope, and over this is a large of the receipt of this envelope, and over this is a large of the receipt of this envelope, and over this is a large of the receipt of the supper without detection. On the front of this envelope is the "hexago mest keen a record of its number, with which it is impossible to tamper without detection. On the front of this envelope is the "Record of Transit," with the following rules plainly printed thereon:—

Instructions.—All postal officers handling this package must keep a record of its number, nostmark, with dite, a idress, date of receipt and disposition made of it, so that it may be traced from place of maning to its destination, always taking a receipt for it when practicable. It such receipt cannot be obtained for it at the time, a receipt properly filled up must be placed in the pouch with the package, to be signed by the postmaster of the next office where the pouch is opened, and by him returned to the forwarding route agent or railway clerk by next mail.

Third Assistant Formaster General.

But it is scarcely necessary to dwell upon the individual restonsibility of the various clerks and transfer agents through whose hands a registered letter passes, and the multiform caceks, seals, receipts, &c., which make the abstraction of such a letter amost an impossibility. Thus it will be seen that the sum charged for registration, only eight cents, is not

NEEDLESSLY EXPENDED.

A terror much leared by rogues in the Post Office Department and by delinquent postmasters is a "tracer," which is sent out for missing registered letters, on which each officer handing the package makes indersement as to what he did with it and sends the "tracer" to the person whose receipt he holds. Those sent out by the Chie of the Division of Mail Depredations have con one attached, which the person indorsing the tracer fills up and sends back to the chief at the same time that he sends the searcher anoad, so that, should the tracer be suppressed at any point, investigation commences at that point at once. So careful are the heads of the Registry Department in the New York office that each clerk can only enter by a key of his own, which bears a number and for which he receipts. If this is found in any other hands he is called to account. From the time each letter cheers

Total registered packages and letters handled. 1,305,831
On the 2d of January the force worked double time, and handled 7,842 letters and packages, which exceeded everything in the annals of registry business. In the mouth of December 39,300 registered letters were delivered in this city, and 16,300 were received for delivery during the first ten days of the present month. This shows to what an extent the registry system is appreciated by the people at large. The greater portion of the United States bonds held in Europe went over in registered mails. One firm alone in this city registered over 500 letters containing bonds in three days.

The Superintendent of the Registry Department of the New York Post Office is Mr. E. De Forest and the Assistant Superintendent Mr. Charles Forrester, Jr.

In 1872-73-44 only twenty-one letters were missing, of which three were known to have been parned in a mail car.

VICISSITUDES OF SMUCGLERS. Total registered packages and letters handled. 1,306,831

VICISSITUDES OF SMUGGLERS.

There are now lying in Ludlow Street Jail a larger number of alleged and convicted smugglers than have been lying there at any one period for some time back. A HERALD reporter—thanks to the courtesy of Warden Dunham—was allowed to converse with some of them last night, and the following is what he learned :-- Mr. J. B. Martinez, a Spaniard, who is a Wall street banker, agent of the Havana government lottery and recent editor a Spaniard, who is a Wall street banker, agent of the Havana government lottery and recent editor of a Spanish paper, published in this city, foamed with indignation when spoken to about his little difficulties with Uncle Sam's revenue officers. He states that he had oeen asked to sei 800 cigarettes, worth $80, to oblige a friend. With a desire to oblige his irrend he had soid the cigarettes, ignorant that the cigarettes had been smuggled. He also added that he looks upon his incarcation as a piece of rank injustice.

MADEMOISELLE LEONIE JOUVIN.

This French lady, who is of a certain age, had pleaded guilty a lew hours previously to smuggling in the United States District Court. She brought over upward of $15,000 worth of contrabant goods, consisting of dresses and laces for New York lashionables, whose names are known to the Customs authorities, but not yet made public. If Mile. Jouvin had stood her trial they could not have been concealed, but as she refused to go on the stand the names will probably be pigeonholed. If they had been brought out in evidence the wealthy consignees of the dresses, &c., would have stated that they admitted ordering the goods and relied on Mile. Jouvin duly paying duty on them. She was taken hit in her quarters in Ludlow Street Jali last Sunday, with an attack of what was thought to be pieuro pneumonia, and two doctors were summoned to her bedside. She is still confined to her bed, and is waited on by a pretty little French maid. The unfortunate woman is engaged to be married to an Italian gentleman in this city. The smuggled goods she brought over were captured by Inspector Benjamin and Treasury Agent Chaiker, and had been brought by the French steamer Ville de Paris. She undoubtedly relies upon big influence in soon gaining her a pardoo.

MICHAEL GALLAGHES.

MICHAEL GALLAGHER.

Michael Gallagher, one of the firemen of the Clyde steamer Crescent City, brought over 150 cigars, which were given to his brother-in-law as a present. While his brother-in law was taking them ashore he was captured by Customs Inspectors Davis and Corrigan, and told who had given him the cigars. Gallagher says he can do six months imprisonment on his head, and says the two custom House officers are everything but gentlemen.

There are saveral other convicted smugglers in the jail, but they begged the Herald reporter not to publish their names, which was promised and hereby kept.
